

Fables & Morals

Grade 3 Reading Worksheet

Hilda the Hoarding Squirrel

High in an oak tree lived Hilda the squirrel. All autumn, she gathered acorns and hid them in her hollow. When Pip the chipmunk asked for just one acorn, Hilda shook her head. "Mine!" she said. Winter came with a great storm. The wind cracked Hilda's branch, and her hollow full of acorns tumbled to the ground and washed away. Hungry and cold, Hilda knocked on Pip's door. Pip had saved only a few nuts, but he shared them with her. Hilda's cheeks burned with shame. "Thank you," she whispered. From that day on, Hilda always shared her food.

1. What is the moral of this fable?
 - a. Sharing with others brings help when you need it.
 - b. Acorns taste best in autumn.
 - c. Storms break tree branches.
2. What happened to Hilda's acorns?
 - a. She ate them all
 - b. Pip stole them
 - c. They washed away in a storm
3. How did Hilda feel when Pip shared his nuts with her?
