Oliver Owl and the Fireflies

Oliver Owl was proud of his big, bright eyes. "I can see in the dark better than anyone!" he hooted. One summer night, tiny fireflies began to glow around the pond. Their little lights danced like stars. The other animals gasped with joy. Oliver felt jealous. "My eyes are brighter!" he said. The eldest firefly glowed softly. "Your eyes are wonderful, Oliver. And our lights are wonderful too. The night is big enough for every kind of light." Oliver smiled. He had learned something new.
