The Broken Kite

Tom and his dad built a big blue kite on Saturday morning. They glued the sticks, tied the string, and added a long red tail. At the park, the wind was just right. Up went the kite, higher and higher! Then Tom heard a snap. The string had broken! The kite sailed away and landed in a tall tree. Tom felt like crying. Just then a strong wind shook the tree. The kite fell, but it tore on a branch on the way down. Dad patted Tom's shoulder. They took the kite home. Dad taped the tear and tied on a stronger string. Back at the park, the mended kite flew higher than ever. Tom cheered.
