The New Student

Nina moved to a new town in October. Everything was strange: the streets, the school, the faces. On her first day she sat alone at lunch, pushing her sandwich around her plate. She missed her old friends. During break a boy dropped his books in the hallway. Papers flew everywhere. Nina knelt down and helped him pick them up. Thanks, he said with a grin. I'm Leo. They started talking about books and games. They laughed at the same jokes. At lunch the next day, Leo waved her over to his table. Nina sat down, smiling. She had made her first new friend.

Label each part: I=introduction, P=problem, C=climax, F=falling action, R=resolution
